January 19, 1983

Honorable William J. Casey
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D. C. 20505

1-2

Dear Mr. Casey:

Recently the Committee was notified of a new regulation,  which authorizes reimbursement overseas for an employee's travel by private vehicle between office and home where it is determined by the chief of installation that "the special duties or position of an employee require frequent and recurrent recall to the office and public transportation facilities are nonexistent or unsafe." It is my understanding that this regulation will apply to only a select group of Agency employees, such as communications personnel, whose duties require frequent and recurrent recall to the office during non-duty hours, and only at such times when they indeed are recalled to the office during non-duty hours.

Under such circumstances, the new regulation constitutes a clearly defined and limited exception to the long established Government ban on payment for travel between home and office.

If this understanding is incorrect, please notify the Committee.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD P. BOLAND
Chairman
